COMPLEX PROBLEM—how to provide ambulance service to the Quad-City area without losing taxpayer dollars—was discussed by local government officials during a meeting Monday afternoon in Granite City. On March 15, taxpayers of Granite City will begin assuming the salaries of the ambulance employees, who currently are paid through federal Manpower funds. It has been ruled that city ambulances cannot legally operate at a financial loss outside of the city limits, since city taxpayers would then be subsidizing service for other areas. Another planned Jan. 23, Standing from the left is Nameoki Township Trustee W. Lee Adams, Venice Township Supervisor Christ Pashoff, Township Supervisor Walter "Dick" Sparks, Granite City Alderman Everett "Cherry" Moren and Granite City Fire Chief Don Parente. Seated are Nameoki Township Supervisor Harold Davis, right, and his aide, Mark Davis.

Ambulance fund dilemma

Fifteen officials representing Granite City and other cities and townships in the Quad-City area met in the City Hall of Granite City Monday afternoon to discuss what they can continue to provide ambulance service to Madison, Venice, Pontoon Beach, and Nameoki, Chouteau and Venice townships.

Granite City Attorney Lance Callis explained that the service to be provided, some currently are employed under a federal Manpower grant from the city, will continue, but funding will run out March 15, after which taxpayers of Granite City will have to pay their salaries. Callis said it would not be legal for Granite City taxpayers to subsidize ambulance service to outlying areas, if the service operates at a loss outside of the city.

He said service can legally be continued, as long as there are guarantees. The service will "break even" for calls outside of the city limits. But taxpayers cannot shake up any losses the service encounters outside of the city, he stressed.

He explained, some of the city of guaranteed payment for ambulance runs outside of the city will be necessary if Granite City ambulances are to leave the city limits, starting March 15.

Caseyville Township uses a system in which ambulances directly by the township for every run outside the city, and the township then attempts to collect the bills from the residents, it was related.

Granite City Alderman Sam Whitmer, chairman of the traffic committee which oversees the ambulance service, said the city wants to work

Demo board backs Estes

A wide difference of opinion among Democratic leaders in Madison County became evident Monday night when there were 15-13 and 15-14 votes on two of the March 21 primary election endorsements.

Twenty-one of the 34 members of the executive board of the county's Democratic Central Committee participated in the balloting.

James Estes of Mitchell, who was defeated last year in a bid for re-election as Chouteau Township highway commissioner, was chosen as the party's officially-backed candidate to succeed Sheriff John Maers, who is not seeking re-election.

The vote to ratify a screening panel's selection of Estes was 15-13, with Edward Voumard of Alton abstaining. Estes and Voumard are two of the five

CITY TEMPLE'S NEW CHURCH. The Rev. Eugene Cope, pastor of the City Temple Assembly of God Church, delivered the first sermon this week in the newly-constructed church at 4751 Maryville Road. Modern architecture is combined with contemporary style to create an atmosphere of simplicity with white brick and mellow wood tones. Vivid colors in the stained glass window contrast with vertical wood strips and the white of the remaining walls. Bright red carpeting and red upholstered accent the sanctuary, which has large round light fixtures suspended from the 40-foot ceiling and spotlights above the choir section and on each side of the window.

Cooperation for air quality pledged; coke ovens planned

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

Top Granite City Steel officials attended Tuesday night's meeting of the Granite City Pollution Control Board to assure board members that the steel company is offering full cooperation in efforts to improve air quality in Granite City.

James V. Stack, president of the Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corp., and Donald F. Cairns, Granite City manager, presented in charge of environmental control programs, attended and told the board that the company is doing everything possible to identify areas of pollution and to solve problems in those areas.

We are not in an adversary position to areas where we need immediate attention," Stack told the board.

He added, "The EPA (Illinois State Air Pollution Protection Agency) has been very cooperative and we have timetables for every problem area."

Stack also said, "It does not make sense to have us put out of the bank building (steel offices over First Granite City National Bank) and see we do have a pollution problem here. We want to cooperate with the air board in solving the problem."

Cairns announced plans to close one coke-oven battery in December 1979 and another in June 1980, and to replace them with a cleaner battery of 45 coke ovens to replace the "a battery" and 18 ovens in "B battery."

"We anticipate a great reduction in emissions due to better cooling, charging and control, and a quieting and a pushing operation which will make the smoke easier to capture and clean," Cairns said.

He said the change to the new battery will not increase coke production here.

Granite City Steel has submitted an application to the EPA for a permit to construct the new coke oven battery, the board was told.

Discussing progress the company has made recently under a detailed agreement with the EPA, Cairns noted that two large tanks have been converted for stage charging of the coke ovens, and a new steam line is being constructed to further reduce dust in that operation.

A newly-designed loading car was put into operation, but a fire in the fuel line caused it to catch fire and put it out of operation for about three months while the control room was rebuilt, he said.

Two new experimental systems have been put into operation which can have been bought by other steel mills for use, and Granite City Steel

Snow today; cold blamed in 2 deaths

at 5:30.

Mrs. Stanze resided in a small house with no furnace, using a coal stove for heat, Werner said.

The stove fire was out when sheriff's deputies and humane officers entered the home to care for two dogs belonging to Mrs. Stanze. Their barking had attracted attention to the home Monday.

Autopsies showed heart attacks, and they had frozen due to exposure to the cold.

Mrs. Stanze, 72, of 917 Highway 162, was found in her home without signs of life Monday. Madison County Deputy Coroner Edward Werner pronounced her dead at 5:25 p.m. Monday.

Willie "Wild Bill" Gibbs, 61, of 2810 Pershing Blvd., was found dead in the stairwell of St. John United Church of Christ, 2901 Nameoki Road, Tuesday.

A employee of St. John's Church, checking the furnace in the church basement, had seen a man lying in the stairwell a window. She ran outside, called to two cement workers for help, and then summoned police.

Madison County Deputy Coroner David Parine pronounced Mr. Gibbs dead at the scene at 8:50 a.m. An autopsy was held.

It was noted that Mr. Gibbs had numerous cuts and bruises on his forehead and to the back of his head. He had a $1 bill in his wallet and some coins in a pocket. His watch had stopped.

He is survived by the U.S. Army during World War II.

His survivors include one brother, Ervin Landwehr of Madison, and a sister, Mrs. Frieda Kaufman of Alhambra.

Mr. Gibbs was a member of St. Edward County, Mo., and Roy Parker of Tulsa, Okla.

Funeral arrangements for both are given in the obituary column.

Alleged store bandits charged

two in Florissant, two in St. Louis County and one in Hazelwood.

Two men and a juvenile girl were being held Tuesday by Grandview police while an investigation continued into a robbery which occurred at 9:45 p.m. Monday at the Kroger store, 3401 Nameoki Village Shopping Center.

The robbery and capture of the trio eventually involved bystanders and officers from the Madison and Venice departments in addition to Granite City police.

A juvenile girl captured with the bandits was released to her mother while the investigation continues.

A skinned man took an undetermined amount of cash at the Tri-City store.

Opal Gandy, cashier, was preparing to take money from a cash register when a man grabbed her by the arm and told her, "Don't say a word."

The man removed all current jewelry and then threw the cash drawer on the floor. He tried to leave by a pressure-operated "in" door, found he couldn't exit, and pushed through a cluster of shopping carts to reach the "out" door.

Those involved turned out to be a robbery suspect, an employee and his captors that if he was not released, his friends outside in a car would come in with guns.

The cashier said the man went through the check-out lane with several items and handed him money to pay for his purchases.

When the cashier opened the cash register, the suspect reached inside and started taking money out of the drawer.

The cashier grabbed the man's

Power plant site panel formed by Rep. Lucco

An electric utility task force has been formed by the Illinois Energy Resources Commission and will begin meeting its duties, according to Rep. Joe E. Lucco (D-Edwardsville), commission chairman.

The task force — composed of representatives of state governmental agencies, the General Assembly, public utilities, and consumer and environmental organizations — will study problems associated with new power plants and with the siting of new power plants in the state.

Commission public member Tor Kallfat, a partner of the Chicago based consulting engineering firm Sargent & Lundy, will be the panel's chairman and technical advisor of the task force, which will hold its first meeting in Springfield on Wednesday, Jan. 18, at 10 a.m. in Room C-1 of the Stratton Office Building in Springfield.

Rep. Lucco comments, "The increased demand for electrical energy in Illinois has led utilities to plan for the construction of many new nuclear or coal-fired power plants."

"It is the responsibility of state government to ensure that a reliable supply of electrical energy is maintained at a level consistent with the need for such energy."

"At the same time, we must provide for the protection of public health and safety, and protect valuable agricultural land resources," Lucco said.

The task force will study various means for state regulations of power plant siting, including the one-stop siting concept. In this approach, a new agency is created with authority for deciding the feasibility of all aspects of a particular site — and for issuing the necessary construction permits if the site is deemed acceptable by the siting agency.

The task force will study all aspects of existing power plant siting laws in other states, including their effectiveness in operation. It will adopt a legislative concept deemed best suited to regulating the siting and certification on new electrical generating facilities in Illinois.

Commission Chairman Lucco said the task force is one of several legislative panels which have been developed to study the legislative needs of the state in energy.

Other groups include a coal development and transportation task force, and a conservation and alternative energy task force.

State staff expanded by snow workers

Illinois Comptroller Michael J. Balda reported this week that snow removal on Illinois roads accounted for the biggest part of increased payrolls during November.

The total were 11,800 employees of all state agencies in November, an increase of 249, or 2.2 percent, compared to October. Exclusive of educational institutions, the November total was 75,796, a decrease of 29, or 0.4 percent.

Changes by major groups were:

Constitutional officers and courts up 10, or 1 percent.

Code departments down 72, or 1.1 percent.

Major commissions up 35, or 9 percent.

Miscellaneous agencies down 1, or 0.1 percent.

Payrolls for all agencies totaled $119,000,340, a decrease of $2,826,277, or 2.3 percent, from October. Payrolls for all agencies except educational institutions were $81,623,247, an increase of $45,761, or 0.6 percent.

The number of employees in November 1977 was 364 more than in November 1976. Educational institutions increased by 643. All other agencies increased by 221.

Total payroll costs for all state agencies increased by $6,051,780, or up 5.3 percent, from November 1976 to November 1977.

Budget hearing planned Jan. 16

The new 1978 budget of the Metro-East Sanitary district will be presented to a public hearing at 4:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 16, at 1801 Main St.

The new $1.5 million appropriation bill, exclusive of bond and interest payments, will be submitted to the board of trustees for action following the hearing.

Adoption of the budget Monday will clear the way for adoption of a new tax levy, scheduled Jan. 30 in a meeting at East St. Louis. After the levy is adopted, the district will be able to issue anticipation warrants which will provide operating expenses until tax collections begin this summer.

Honors list

Three Venice students were named this week to the honor list at Belleville Area College for the fall semester. The list requires that a student maintain at least a 3.0 grade point average on the college's 4.0 system.

These achieving honors were Gerald Corrie, 1301 Robin St., Ralph Koelker, 420 Lincoln Ave., and Peggy Pier, 707 Broadway.

SHED BURGLARIZED
A shed at the home of Carolyn Ezell, 3020 Edgewood Ave., was burglarized Monday. A child's red pedal car, worth $40, and a play motorcycle, valued at $20, were stolen, the owner reported Monday.

will supply similar units to other mills. "C-battery" coke ovens have been rebuilt and an electrostatic precipitator is being put on its stack, he related.

Flux clink additive closures and a check closure have been put on the oxygen furnaces and a steam evaporation system at the BOF is in final checkout, in an effort to reach an essential balance of the intake and output of moisture, it was explained.

Indirect cooling panels newly completed at the BOF building will stop water dripping into the waste precipitators and short-circuiting them.

"Dust boxes at the BOF are working well and a washer to keep the exteriors of the dust boxes clean is working. Relining and control controls are being built with a hub, fan and large baghouse.

"Other BOF pollution controls also are under construction or in operation and represent a sizeable investment. We are stepping little to get everything done," Cairns asserted.

A great deal of conversation during the meeting focused on the city's attempts to trace the source of a white dust which has fallen on cars and houses in the East Granite City area during several "fallout" incidents recently.

Alderman Charles Douglas, an air board member, alleged watching plumes of dust at nightfall rising from the company's sinter plant and falling in East Granite City. Cairns responded, "We have done a great deal to attempt to identify the source. We have taken dust samples from several areas of the plant and compared them under a microscope. The dust from the sinter plant in the East Granite area has the same characteristics as dust from any given portion of the steel mill."

Carins compared them with the same magnification of photos of dust samples taken

He labeled the results of laboratory tests conducted for the air board as "inconclusive" and "air board analysis," particularly an analysis which concluded the dust was from a steel mill.

Cairns said, "We are trying to locate the problem. If we are causing it, we will stop it."

"We want to stop it. If we work together with the air board and exchange information, I hope we will be able to identify the source and we will be able to take actions as necessary to improve it."

"We frankly know where we can find it. There are a lot of people scratching it, trying to find it," he concluded.

Cairns said he believed that several steel companies, including Granite City Steel, plan to join in an effort to convince the Illinois Pollution Control Board that its regulations for carbon monoxide levels for sinter plants, blast furnaces and basic oxygen furnaces are too strict and probably cannot be met by any steel company in the United States."

Thus, the sinter plant is operating without an EPA operating permit at this time, he said.

"It is a rocky road and places a great burden on the company and regulatory authorities to reach a balance."

plants, blast furnaces and basic oxygen furnaces are too strict and probably cannot be met by any steel company in the United States."

He said that is why Cairns, Stack and other air board members are bonding modified to a level they can reach, which is still safe for the public health.

Alderman Douglas asked why, in light of what he regards as circumstantial evidence that the sinter plant is the source, the EPA does not conduct a "stack test" to analyze smoke from the stack.

Jennings responded that a stack test would be too expensive. They cost $2,000 to $3,000 for each stack test and it would be unfair to force the company to conduct that kind of test on a regular basis. He added, however, that the last bond was run on the sinter plant.

He said the only way persons who have been damaged by pollution would be able to get their losses would be to sue all through the Illinois Pollution Control Board or in the civil courts.

But the burden of proof would be on the complainants to show where the emissions originated, and evidence has been inconclusive thus far, Jennings concluded.

Fight against foreign steel dumping traced by McBride in talk here

Using his background of 40 years in the labor movement, United Steelworkers of America President Lloyd McBride spoke Tuesday on the topic, "Labor Losses and Relations with Management."

He appeared before two meetings—at breakfast and lunch—of the Management and Labor of the YMCA of Greater St. Louis. The top official formerly headed the USWA St. Louis district and Granville City sub-district.

Tracing the beginnings of the Steelworkers union from its earliest days, McBride explained the trials and tribulations of those organizing efforts built up a natural and long-lasting resentment of steel imports.

This he told his audience, was the background for USWA-management bargaining over the years that was regularly punctuated by strikes and other work stoppages.

His speech was made up largely of middle-management people from a wide range of St. Louis metropolitan area business and industry, including the Quad-Cities.

McBride related that the situation has largely changed today in the steel industry, with breakthroughs in labor relations. And he talked at length about how the union is working arm-in-arm with management in a joint effort to help solve the steel imports problem.

He also had advice for those engaged in dealing with unions: "In fairness, and in a sense of common sense, you must experience political pressures in the corporate structure, so do the union leaders receive and react to political pressures—which may or may not be always obvious, but which are always there."

"Anyone involved in industrial relations must look at the political background of each particular situation and try to understand what the pressures are and why. Often, an understanding of these pressures will offer the key to a trouble-free situation."

"I like to think that our union has currently established a reputation for responsibility. It is respected and recognized for its integrity. Our policy is to honor our word to those we put our trust in to that concern."

"In fairness, when we have reason to believe we're being taken advantage of, then we react to that in the same way. Irresponsibility on one side often begets irresponsibility on the other."

"And we try to concern ourselves with the employer's problems. We have been willing to innovate in order to build constructive relationships."

"For example, we and the employers were faced with a serious problem in the steel industry, and we were willing to innovate in order to help solve that problem. It grew out of the history of many strikes in our industry—the last big one being in 1959 for 116 days."

"The strike had a long-lasting effect. The steel fabricators were not prepared for a long strike and had not stockpiled steel, so many of them were forced temporarily out of business."

"When the strike was over, those people made up their minds that we were not going to do that to them any more. In order to protect themselves against future strikes, they never did occur, incidentally, they took two courses of action."

"One, they began stockpiling steel prior to contract negotiations, and two, they started looking to Japan as a source of steel... and at a substantially lower price than the domestic industry could supply it."

"Further, in the case of steel tubing fabricators on the West Coast, Japanese restrictions on what they are willing to supply has almost made these

"The Japanese decided they would engage in what is known as 'dumping'."

"Now, 'dumping' simply means selling a product at a price less than it costs to produce it and transport it to the point where it is sold."

"The prices were almost irresistible to fabricators—as much as $60 a ton less than the domestic price."

"Why not?"

"They soon found out."

"In 1971, there was a world shortage of steel, and before it was over, Japanese steel cost its buyers a premium of about $260 a ton over the prevailing American price, instead of the $60 a ton."

"It almost bankrupted a number of steel fabricators in this country at that time."

"Of course, the world market has fallen off again, and that is the reason the steel is again being dumped in the U.S."

"Further, in the case of steel tubing fabricators on the West Coast, Japanese restrictions on what they are willing to supply has almost made these steel fabricators a captive market. They are now looking for more reliable American sources of steel."

"You may ask, why do the Japanese dump? Why are they willing to sell steel at such low prices?"

"Simply to deal with their unemployment problem at home. They would rather pay subsidies to their steel mills than to pay unemployment benefits—which is not their policy."

"When they soon found out,"

"In 1971, there was a world shortage of steel, and before it was over, Japanese steel cost its buyers a premium of about $260 a ton over the prevailing American price, instead of the $60 a ton."

"It almost bankrupted a number of steel fabricators in this country at that time."

"Of course, the world market has fallen off again, and that is the reason the steel is again being dumped in the U.S."

"Further, in the case of steel tubing fabricators on the West Coast, Japanese restrictions on what they are willing to supply has almost made these

"A good portion of my time in the past seven months has been spent in Washington trying to persuade people in government that we have had done for the American people if this practice were allowed to destroy the basic steel industry or a substantial portion of it."

"Our experience in 1974 shows that when we can no longer provide our own needs for the American people who are willing to sell steel at such low prices?"

"Simply to deal with their unemployment problem at home. They would rather pay subsidies to their steel mills than to pay unemployment benefits—which is not their policy."

"When they soon found out,"

"Further, in the case of steel tubing fabricators on the West Coast, Japanese restrictions on what they are willing to supply has almost made these

"The steelworkers is not going to subsidize the users of steel in this country by accepting a lower standard of living."

"We are on a par with other industries, such as the auto and petroleum industries, and so the relief must come elsewhere."

"Generally, you will find our union in a firm's strength, adversary relationship with steel management."

"But in this case, responsibility to our members as well as our employers dictates that we do what we HAVE BEEN doing, and that is to use whatever political clout we have."

"Dumping has been proven conclusively. It not only violates OUR laws, but it violates world trade agreements."

"We have agreed to a program that has been announced, but not yet implemented, for stopping this unfair competition—the system of reference pricing."

"Our reference pricing would eventually destroy the ability of the American steel industry to supply our own needs."

"Steel companies would no longer spend the money necessary to keep plants modern and efficient, and even now, some of the older facilities have been shut down."

"Owners may very well decide to go into some other business, and a profit is possible—and who could blame them?"

"They have organized that they have to keep plants modern and efficient, and even now, some of the older facilities have been shut down."

'Cool' Red Devils win first contest, 68-65

By PETE HAYES

Press-Record Sports Editor
GRANITE CITY, Jan. 10—The Red Devils of Venice had a locked room Tuesday night that was unusually cool after the Red Devils' game with Alton Marquette. Unusual? What's so unusual about the locker room being cool in the school of a team that's 1-2?

The fact that they were 0-8 going into the game, that's what. The Red Devils jumped out to a early lead and held off Marquette rally late in the game and won their first game of the season, 68-65. But the team and its coach, Ken Perkins, were taking things in stride.

"We knew we should have beaten our opponents in the last couple of ball games," said Perkins. "Tonight, we knew we should win and we have."

It was Perkins' first win as the head coach at Venice, which doesn't exactly qualify him to challenge Collinsville coach Vergil Fletcher for career wins (Fletcher has 729), but nonetheless, we just as well be talking to Perkins as if it's been his one thousandth victory.

"OH, IT'S GREAT TO WIN," said Perkins. "I think this one will give the guys a new way to play when the going gets tough."

Tonight, when Marquette started coming back, we kept up the pressure and didn't give in. That's been the key to most of our games this year."

AFTER jumping out to a nine-point lead in the first quarter, the Devils, behind a balanced scoring attack, looked as if they were on the verge of breaking the game open on several occasions. But that didn't happen.

"We just couldn't get them away," said Perkins. "It seems as if we play in a bubble."

The Devil took a lead of 32-26 into the locker room at half-time, but saw it slip away early in the third quarter.

After building up a 43-33 lead, the Devils slipped into a lape. But luckily for them it wasn't as long as the lapses had been in recent games.

THE EXPLORERS pulled within one point at 44-43 at the 2:54 mark of the period on a five-foot jumper by Lee Tamm.

The Devils had a key ingredient to Marquette's ability to stay in the game.

He pumped in 22 points on the night to lead all scorers.

At all, the Explorers outscored Venice 27-26 in the third period to pull within one, 50-49, going into the fourth quarter.

The fourth period opened with a three-point play by Venice's Donald Mathis. After that, it was all downhill for Marquette.

Several times, they managed to climb within four points, but that was as close as they got, save a 25-foot shot at the buzzer by Kevin Woll which accounted for the final difference of three points.

THE DEVILS opened up their biggest lead of the night with Gardner hit a shot from the top of the key to give them a 67-61 lead with less than a minute remaining.

"We finally got our zone-defense working for us," said Perkins. "But we kind of got lazy in the third quarter and let them get back into the game."

"We got a lot of respect for this Marquette team," he added. "They didn't let up, even when it looked as if we might blow them out."

They (Marquette) wanted that rebound and they knew how to go out there and fight for it. They're a very physical club ... our guys aren't used to all that contact out there."

THE DEVILS WILL GET A LOOEY Saturday at a game that is considerably tougher than the Marquette team they faced Tuesday.

They travel to Teutopolis for a game with the 10-1 Wooden Shoes, ranked third in the state among Class A (730 enrollment or less) in a recent poll.

But after Tuesday night's victory, Ken Perkins wasn't acting as if he were particularly nervous or upset about the game in "T-town" Saturday.

"I'm only 729 wins from Vergil Fletcher's record!"

Guelker resigns as SIUE A.D.

Guelker had been asked to resign, Bigham said. "It is a question of interpretation."

"Something had to be done. We confronted Bob with the problem of the duality of roles, and indicated a choice needed to be made."

"Considering his outstanding success as a soccer coach, it was suggested that he resign as athletic director to reduce the workload and involve the conflict of interest."

Bigham added that the discussion of the change in responsibilities included references to a recent audit of the athletic department by only in connection with the conflicting roles between the two jobs. The audit exonerated Guelker of any improprieties.

Guelker said that in a discussion with Dr. C. "Scully" Stikes, vice-president for student affairs, about which responsibility the university would prefer that Guelker concentrate on, Stikes said "soccer" because of Guelker's "great achievements as a coach of the sport."

The resignation of Robert M. Guelker as athletic director at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, effective June 30, 1978, was announced by university officials Tuesday. Guelker will remain as coach of the soccer team and will participate in teaching and other duties, according to Eldon M. Bigham, assistant to the vice-president for student affairs, for athletics and recreation.

Guelker said Guelker's decision to resign as athletic director developed from a concern about budgetary problems which he would have to contend with in the dual role in the future.

"Being athletic director and coach of the university's major sport, competing in NCAAs, I would see that I was in a great disadvantage, since facing the serious budgetary problems which lie ahead for both the department and sport," Bigham said. "It was just too much to ask of him," the assistant to the vice-president added.

Commenting on a report that

Guelker had been asked to resign, Bigham said, "It is a question of interpretation."

Guelker had been asked to resign, Bigham said. "It is a question of interpretation."

Dr. Kenneth A. Shaw, president of SIUE, said, "Bob Guelker has proved himself to be an outstanding person in everything he has done as a teacher, an intramural director, a soccer coach and an athletic director. He has gone beyond the usual expectations. I very much hope he will continue to coach the soccer team and serve the university in many other ways."

Guelker commented, "In essence, the situation was boiled down to the problems with the soccer as a varsity sport at SIUE in 1978."

He handed the Cougars to the championship of NCAA Division II in 1972 and this year, after coaching his 200th victory, he led the Cougars to a third-place finish in NCAAs.

Guelker was United States Olympic soccer team to the final round of 16 in the Games at Munich in 1972, and he was named the first recipient of the National Soccer Coaches Association's "soccer coach of the year" award in 1973.

Guelker has been athletic director at SIUE since 1972.

Shaw, president of SIUE, said, "Bob Guelker has proved himself to be an outstanding person in everything he has done as a teacher, an intramural director, a soccer coach and an athletic director. He has gone beyond the usual expectations. I very much hope he will continue to coach the soccer team and serve the university in many other ways."

Guelker added that he will be working closely with Guelker to assure there is continuity in the direction of the athletic department.

It should be another interesting weekend for Quad-City prep basketball teams. Three out of the four schools will be looking for their first win since losing games last night. The junior varsity game starts at 6:30.

Saturday night, the Steelers will be home to Edwardsville for another 8 p.m. game. North is coming off a narrow (51-48) loss to Mater Dei last weekend and will be looking for its fifth win against side losses.

He said he is hoping to stay as coach, but said his future as coach will depend on whether the university can provide the resources he needs to continue an effective soccer program.

"I feel the university is willing to renegotiate a satisfactory contract as coach, and I see a very bright future down the road for the next three years because of the young squad we have," he said.

Pres. Shaw added that

'Basketball is . . .'

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD Thurs., Jan. 12, 1978 Page 7

(Editor's Note: Basketball is covering the second half of its season whether it or not. Sports Editor Jim Barnhart of the Bloomington Daily Pantograph traditionally in his articles, offers me a tongue-in-cheek view of Illinois basketball season, through the eyes of a sports writer. The following are excerpts from an article which appeared in the Jan. 12, 1977, issue of Illinois Intercollegiate magazine, through the courtesy of Mr. Barnhart.)

Basketball?

Not on your life! How can you hate a sport that provides you with work 24 hours a day, seven days a week, four and one-third weeks a month and eight months out of the year?

Basketball season is . . . well, it's just basketball season. A game where a 35-second-old group of yahoos depend on a group of yahoos running around in their underwear.

Basketball is inflation.

Athletes no longer give 100 percent. It's up to 110 percent.

Basketball is holiday tournament week. Getting up at 6 a.m. and getting to bed at 2 a.m. Basketball season is not because you usually sleep at 2 a.m. because you usually omit the final score from your story.

Basketball season is driving in slush, on ice, and on snow as fast as you can in order to run a story on something no one will care about five years from now. Basketball is a team leading 121-23 with six seconds left and calling a time out because it has one less player.

Basketball is the coach diagramming plays on his chalkboard while most of the team watches the cheerleaders.

Basketball is old men sitting in the stands underneath their funnel-like boater caps and shouting obscenities at the officials.

Basketball is the coach waxing fear about his team's chances in a game against a club which hasn't won in 14 years.

"They're due," he says. So is prosperity.

Basketball is the pep bands playing the Budweiser song. The sheet music must be free. Basketball is 98 cheerleaders, 138 pom-pom girls, 14 managers, 68 musicians and one popcorn stand.

Basketball is the 50-cent coke which is 90 percent ice.

Basketball is the young coach who thinks he's being original when he says his team will show up for every game.

Basketball is the veteran coach who, in answer to a question on his information blank as to how the team finished the previous season, writes "Tired."

Basketball is the national anthem when players rock back on their heels, put their hands behind their backs, chew gum and scratch their various itches.

Basketball is the undefeated freshman team and the 20-1 sophomore team being 3-0 and 4-0 in its varsity series.

Basketball season is sitting through your sixth straight game at a holiday tournament and then overhearing someone say, "from the radio, has been failing for an hour."

Basketball is the fan who yells at the official, "Wake up ref, you're missing a good game," and then thinks he's said something original.

Basketball is the sport that turns idiots into raving idiots.

Basketball, like death and taxes, is inevitable.

Makowski is named to another All-America team

Greg "Face" Makowski, defensive star on the Southern Illinois University Edwardsville soccer team for the past four seasons, has been named to another All-American team. This time, he was chosen by the members of the National Soccer Coaches Association.

Last week, Makowski, a senior at SIUE, was picked on Soccer America's All-American team.

The hard-playing Makowski was first chosen as an All-American after his sophomore season at SIUE. He repeated as a junior and now as a senior.

An oddity of the coaches' All-American team is the fact that not one player from the University of San Francisco, the NCAA champion in 1975 and again in '76, was named to the 1977 national team.

San Francisco U. Dons lost their crown to Hartwick College after defeating SIUE 2-1 at Berkeley.

May ask police to monitor noise

Since state and federal authorities do not have the facilities or manpower to deal with "noise pollution" from automobiles, motorcycles and other motor vehicles, local authorities will be required to enforce noise regulations, the Granite City Air Pollution Control Board was told during its regular meeting Tuesday night.

A letter from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, the board was told, the EPA's normal route of prosecuting noise offenders would not be practical for motor vehicles.

The EPA said that normally the EPA refers noise pollution cases to the state attorney general's office, which then presents them to the courts or before the Illinois Pollution Control Board.

The letter said local-level officials are more responsive to complaints concerning vehicle noise, and would be the logical authority to enforce noise regulations from sources.

The EPA will aid in training local noise enforcement officials and will make sound level meters available to cities wishing to implement their own noise control programs.

Air Board Chairman Bill Rotter said the air board does not seem the appropriate arm of the state to enforce noise pollution regulations.

"As we are now set up, we do not have that authority. We could seek that authority or refer the matter to other city agencies," he said.

He suggested the police may be the best agency for enforcing vehicle noise regulations, since officers are on the streets much of the time.

"We have no objections to expanding the scope of our air pollution control authority, but it would require additional personnel and equipment," Rotter said.

He said county staff will take on these additional tasks and continue to do a good job in air pollution research.

"We will probably bring the road cleaner later, but it is too slow for us right now," Rotter said this morning.

He said predictions for up to three inches of snow with a high temperature today in the 20s, will enable the street department to keep the streets in relatively good condition, but warned motorists to be cautious on all streets, particularly side streets.

pollution control department should not be expected to monitor noise pollution.

The department's technical director, Ted Macios, said he is not sure if the air board has the authority to enforce noise pollution regulations.

Jim Henry, the city's air pollution engineer, said he has been told the city attorney is drawing up an ordinance to comply with the state's noise regulations, adding that it probably will utilize the police department.

Henry also reported he is preparing the department's 1978 budget and board members will be given an opportunity to comment individually on the budget before Rotter is asked to sign it.

It will be sent to the board

prior to the board's next meeting in March, so comments from the board members will be obtained by telephone before signing of the document.

Henry said a supplemental application for new equipment has been received by the EPA, and that comments are generally favorable. He expected application in the near future if the EPA has sufficient funds available.

The annual report of the air pollution department's activities was presented and approved.

Henry said the department received 10 complaints during

1977, about double the number of the prior year.

Henry said the report also shows more direct calls, and fewer complaints relayed from other offices, police or other agencies.

"People are learning to call us now, instead of other agencies, the report suggests," he continued.

The board responded to a question from the audience on a recent study of levels of lead in rainfall and on the ground.

Macios said a draft copy of the report was released through the office on our staff's party before it had been considered by the board.

He said the study was a rough draft which is still being revised and it is yet to come before this board," he said.

He apologized to Granite City

Steel officials in the audience, saying a television report indicated the steel mill contributed to lead in the air when there is no evidence that the mill does.

James V. Stack, president of

Granite City Steel, said he is not involved in the plant's processes and none should be escaping into the air from Granite City Steel.

Macios said he hopes a final copy of the study will be ready to present to the board in the near future, possibly at the next meeting.

Voting habits are described here last night

"Why do people become Republicans or Democrats?"

That was the topic of a presentation given the Granite City Democratic Club yesterday evening at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Demostri Hosteller, assistant professor of government and public affairs of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, said evidence shows the majority of those who say they are Democrats or Republicans are those who voted in the election by a new voter.

With more than twice as many new voters as Republicans, the latter, particularly in local level elections, fight harder for the independent vote in many instances, he contend.

According to Demostri, the meeting and several Madison County candidates in the audience were introduced.

All Democratic candidates for county offices are being invited to speak at the next meeting of the club, Feb. 8.

Hosteller contend that the meeting was the "right" party from listening to their parents.

Some later re-evaluated their stand, but many remained with the politics of the same person as their parents, the club was told.

He also said the first vote cast in an election by a new voter can have a great influence on his political future, major factor being how closely the new voter identified with his candidate and whether he won or lost.

A banquet at the Pontoon Baptist Church Sunday evening was under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Staytular, assisted by church youths, who did the serving.

It was a recognition banquet, and those honored for longtime service to some of the church was started as a mission 20 years ago — were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith, Mrs. Leta Kollenbun and Thomas and Lucille Martin. The pastors were Entom and Staytular.

Each lady was given a corsage and the men received boutonnieres, and earlier pictures of the guests of honor were displayed. Special events in the life of each were mentioned as part of a "This is Your Life" program.

IRWIN FUNERAL CHAPEL located at 2801 Madison Ave. is being completely redecorated for a February public open house observance, according to Randall Irwin, owner and operator of the establishment.

The interior rooms will feature decor in soft pastel hues and coordinated drapes and carpeting. The outside of the building is painted white, with black coachlights installed at various points to illuminate the walks, driveway and parking area. The parking site will be concreted as soon as weather permits. A canopy to complement the building, will be erected to cover the front entrance and walk.

Nameoki Township urging payment of ambulance bills

Nameoki Township residents who have not yet paid for ambulance services from Granite City ambulances will receive a letter in the next few days from Nameoki Township, asking that the bills be paid immediately, so that the township may continue to receive ambulance service from the city.

Residents are an outgrowth of a meeting Monday afternoon at which Granite City officials gave outstanding ambulance bills to the mayors and supervisors in the Quad-City area, asking them to collect the bills if service by city ambulances is to continue outside of the city.

Mark Davis, aide to Nameoki Township Supervisor Harold Davis, said Wednesday he is typing letters to township presidents, informing them that failure to pay the bills will endanger the future of ambulance service in the township.

He said the township is attempting to collect 47 bills and copies of the bills, and his letters are being mailed to all who owe the ambulance service.

They are being given seven days to pay the bills or they will be turned over to a collection agency, AAA Credit Service, according to the letter.

The sample bills include

$64.50 in delinquent accounts,

$2,983 in bills which are pending with insurance companies or are not old enough to be delinquent, and $81 which is the difference between what Illinois

Public Aid pays for public aid patients and the regular ambulance charges.

The estimated IPA loss

can be collected and Granite

City wants the township and cities to pay the difference.

Of $5,246 in bills for Nameoki Township ambulance calls, $1,611 has been collected thus far, Davis said.

The ambulance problem was the prime topic of discussion at

Monday night's Nameoki Town

Board of Trustees meeting and the trustees agreed to send the collection letters to those owing the bills and see if the results are acceptable.

There has been no immediate action taken on the public aid bills or on other methods to assure the city that all ambulance calls will be paid for.

The next ambulance service meeting will be at 1 p.m.

Monday, Jan. 23. The town board will meet at 7 p.m. the same day to discuss the problem further.

PTA to stress health education

Social disease ranks second only to the common cold as the most pervasive communicable disease in the U.S. Accidents are the number one killer in the U.S. among the other disease population; suicide is number two. Ten million Americans are malnourished, while 20 per cent of the population is obese.

Armed with such statistics, the National PTA has been working since 1972 to increase public awareness of the need for health education through its Comprehensive School-Community Health Education Project.

For three days, Jan. 25-27, at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago, innovative public awareness strategies developed by the six pilot project participants in the project will be showcased at the organization's first national conference on health education awareness.

The theme of the meeting is "From Challenge — To Action."

The six pilot states — Arkansas, California, Colorado, Georgia, Indiana, and Pennsylvania — are working and developing their programs by mini-grants from the National PTA's health education project, which is funded by the Bureau of Health Education, Center for Disease Control, Public Health Service, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"This is the first conference of its kind for the PTA," says Grace Baisinger, National PTA president. "It is the first statewide health education promotional programs that have been designed, implemented and supervised solely by volunteers who are not professional health educators."

Major speakers scheduled for the conference are Joyce Lashof, M.D., deputy assistant secretary for health; Peter Relic, Ed.D., deputy assistant secretary for health; and Horace Ogden, M.S., director, Bureau of Health Education, Center for Disease Control, Public Health Service, all from the Department of Health.

Dr. Lashof, former director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, will present the opening address at the conference banquet Jan. 25, at 7 p.m. Dr. Relic will address a morning meeting Jan. 26, 12:30 p.m., and Ogden will speak at the general session Jan. 26, 8:30 a.m.

Approximately 250 delegates are expected to attend, among them PTA leaders from all 50 states. The conference is the PTA's national planning group for the project; state education and health department officials; national and state representatives of voluntary community agencies; and members of professional associations.

"In bringing together lay and professional individuals to view and discuss the approaches developed by the pilot states to create public awareness of the need for health education, we hope to stimulate the development of similar promotional efforts in other states," says Pauline Caryon, National PTA coordinator for the project.

How the states developed and implemented their programs will be the focus of a series of workshops scheduled during the conference.

The workshops will be conducted by the six pilot project directors, who will be moderated by members of the National PTA's executive committee.

Since its initiation in 1975, the project has had an impact on a number of communities across the country.

In Oakdale, Calif., the PTA's multi-media presentation on the need for health education in public schools motivated the school board to establish a health education requirement for high school graduation.

During the first nine months of operation in Brentwood, Pa., the project expanded the percentage of school staff and community officials about the potential of health education. It involved 30 persons in health education planning and more than 1,000 persons in a community health night, and triggered development of a standardized process for ascertaining a community's health education needs.

In Colorado, parents are serving as a health education resource in the classroom, leading discussions on numerous health topics. An unexpected benefit of having parents in the classrooms has been improvement of the general health of students in the schools, officials say.

Following this conference, the next phase of the PTA project, with funds from the Bureau of Health Education, will focus on human development within its broader context as a family health issue.

This new phase for the project will be launched by the PTA's national planning group, composed of individuals from agencies promoting family health concerns.

The group will examine the existing projects as major resources to assist schools and communities in planning for the incorporation of this project into comprehensive health education programs, and will make appropriate recommendations.

Tour will encourage equal rights support

NOW (National Organization for Women) yesterday in Springfield honored the birthday of Alice Paul, author of the Equal Rights Amendment — with the send-off of an ERA caravan throughout the southern portion of the state.

In 1923, three years after suffrage was granted, Alice Paul, leader of the ERA, which she viewed as the companion piece of legislation to the right to vote.

She fought to keep the ERA alive before Congress and worked steadily, almost alone, until the resurgence of interest in the amendment in the 1970s.

When asked shortly before her death on July 9, 1977, why she devoted her life so completely to the ERA, she said, "I always thought that once you put the ERA in the plough, you don't remove it until you get to the end of the row."

Naomi Ross, president of Illinois-NOW, stated, "The spirit and enthusiasm which Alice Paul gave and kept the ERA alive for 55 years with the same firm dedication with which we approached the forthcoming ERA ratification vote."

"Part of that enthusiasm," she concluded, "was the idea of the ERA caravan."

The Illinois-NOW ERA Caravan will be stopping in towns to tell people about the ERA — through a film, literature and discussion — and be coming to Springfield for a ratification vote taken during the spring legislative session.

The Equal Rights Amendment passed Congress in 1972 and has been ratified by 35 states. Three additional states are needed before March 23, 1979, a spokesman said.

Adopt pet Saturday, association urges

The Association for Protection of Animals will hold an adoption clinic from 10:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. Saturday at 2851 Washington.

Three dogs, including a five-month-old part German shepherd female, a female cocker and poodle mixture and a one-week-old part beagle male will be available for adoption.

Six cats also will be ready for adoption, with a mother cat and three kittens in the group. Mrs. Mary Ann Loftus, adoption supervisor for the non-profit humane society, advised.

Also available to be adopted by a full-blooded small breed terrier, three years old, who loves children, Mrs. Loftus said. Arrangements for the dog's adoption can be made Saturday at the clinic.

A nominal fee is asked as adoption money, with those adopting a pet, to help keep the shelter construction fund.

Donations to the fund will be used to build a new shelter care area for unadopted pets on a tract of land already made available to the association.

Food of Scotland—it's fit for a feast

By MARJORIE RICE

Half the people in the world are Scots, an old saying goes, and the other half wish they were.

That's probably an old Scottish saying, because the people of Scotland are vastly proud of all things Scottish.

They spurn the notion, held by some, that their food is dull, starchy, flavorless or "foreign."

"That the food of Scotland can be a feast was demonstrated recently by Edinburgh-born chef Bill Thomson, who prepared a banquet of Scottish dishes for a friend's birthday party.

The spectacular centerpiece of the banquet was a poached, decorated salmon, the richness of Scotland abound in this king of fishes, Thomson said.

Thomson decorated the dish with a chaud-froid sauce. While it's typically French, the food is typically Scottish.

The food of Scotland has a decidedly French influence, dating back to Charlemagne, and to French cooks brought in by Mary, Queen of Scots.

Her's a recipe for sauce chaud-froid that could use a simple substitute of plain mayonnaise, by soaking 1 1/2 to 2 tablespoons gelatin in 1 1/2 to 2 tablespoons water. When it's soft, beat it into 1 cup mayonnaise. Use it to coat the fish.

SAUCE CHAUD-FROID

4 tbsps. butter
3 to 4 tbsps. flour
2 cups milk
4 small onions, studded with 4 to 6 whole cloves
1 small bay leaf
Salt to taste
2 tbsps. gelatin
or 4 tbsps. fish or chicken stock

Melt butter in small saucepan over low heat. Mix in flour and blend over low heat for 3 to 5 minutes, stirring constantly to form a roux. Stir milk in slowly. Add onion and bay leaf and cook and stir until smooth. Place in a 300-degree oven to continue cooking slowly for about 20 minutes. Strain the sauce.

Soften gelatin in stock and add to sauce. Simmer gently over medium heat until thoroughly combined. Remove from heat and cool, stirring occasionally to prevent a skin forming.

When cool enough to coat a spoon, pour over fish. Cover over cold fish, spreading with a spatula in the same manner as cake frosting. Decorate, if desired, with cut bits of vegetables in flower shapes, or with thinly sliced radishes or cucumbers. Chill until ready to serve.

Note. To make vegetable decorations, choose chives, leeks, radishes, carrots, red pepper, black olives, thinly sliced truffle, parsley and other foods. Chives and leeks should be blanched in salt water about three minutes, then cooled, drained and crushed ice. Chill coated fish occasionally during decorating to keep chaud-froid from turning dark.

SCOTTISH SALMON

To cook a whole fish: Clean the salmon carefully, but keep the head and tail on. Lay it on its side on the drainer of a fish kettle. Cover it with court bouillon, bring quickly to the boil and then simmer very, very gently for 1 1/2 hours. Turn the fish over, lift out and carefully slide the fish on to a large, warmed dish. Garnish with slices of lemon and cucumbers and sprigs of parsley and serve with plain boiled potatoes and a skirt of bagpipes.

COURT BOUILLON
1/2 cups of water, put:
1 cup with vinegar
1/4 cup salt
2 carrots
3 onions
2 bay leaves
Handful of peppercorns
3 large sprigs parsley
Simmer for 1/2 an hour.

VEAL AND HAM PIE

2 cups diced cooked veal
1 cup diced cooked ham
1/2 cup cooked potato, diced
1 cup cooked green peas, carrots and celery
1/2 cups leftover gravy or 1/2 cup water and 1/2 cup milk heated with 1/4 cup milk
Biscuit topping for stew
Combine the meats, vegetables and sauce; taste and season.

Add a topping of pastry, biscuit dough or batter. Bake in 375-degree oven until topping is brown.

SCOTS TRIFLE

1 sponge layer cake
Juice 1 strawberry or raspberry
Macaroons

1/4 cup orange juice or fruit syrup
1/4 cup sherry or Marsala
2 cups soft custard
1 cup whipping cream
1/4 cup sugar
1 tsp. vanilla

Split the sponge layer, and sponge the juice. Put together, and cut into fingers. In a deep glass dish, arrange alternate layers of sponge fingers and crumbled macaroons. Mix the orange juice and sugar together, and drizzle over the layers.

Pour cooled soft custard pudding (home made or made from a mix) over all. Cover with a plate, and set in refrigerator to cool and mellow.

Before serving, whip cream with sugar and vanilla, and spread thickly over trifle. Sprinkle with a few chopped nuts for decoration, if desired. Serves eight.

RUSSIAN TREATY
The United States ratified the Treaty of Friendship with Russia, establishing the boundary line between the United States and Russian territory on Jan. 11, 1825.

Schools
eye fuel,
weather

State Superintendent of Education Joseph M. Cronin announced Tuesday a series of plans for meeting the fuel energy crisis faced by some Illinois schools.

The plan, of a four-day week, if extremely cold temperatures force school closings again this winter and if the "energy crisis" of 1976-77 is repeated.

2. The use of schools' health-safety funds for energy conservation measures such as building modifications, boiler repairs and insulation.

3. The availability of federal grants for solar energy from the Federal Department of Energy.

The State Board of Education supported legislation for the emergency four-day week and for energy conservation measures. Mr. Cronin noted, "The governor signed the bills into law late last year."

Cronin expressed concern about the coal strike if it should last more than two months.

"Some of our schools have enough coal for the winter while others have a 60-day supply or less."

He also reported that several dozen school districts have already signed up for five emergency snow days in their calendars and need to consider a revised schedule of holidays and vacation times.

It is highly unusual for Illinois weather to cause so many closings before the end-of-year holidays," he commented.

Cronin urged parents, children and teachers to borrow books from school and public libraries in order to be prepared for reading during any future snow days of days of severe weather that may cause school closings.

INTRUDER TAKES $117

A burglar took $117 from the pocket of a pair of trousers left in the bedroom at the home of Richard M. Lindsey, 2108 Kirkpatrick Homes, the owner reported at 8:20 a.m. Wednesday. Evidence in the apartment was gained by breaking a glass pane in a door.

Allotment checks are on the way

By RAY SERATI

SPRINGFIELD — The checks are coming.

That's the word from the Governor's Office of Manpower and Human Development when asked about the fuel allotment program. The program is designed to help those people who qualify for the allotments under the income poverty guidelines.

Sharon Marsh, who is in charge of administering the program, said at the present time an audit is underway and as soon as it is completed the checks will be in the mails.

The audit is being made because it was discovered that there were some duplicate checks coming up in the system, Marsh said, "and we wanted it stopped as soon as possible."

Some checks had already hit the mails before the duplicates were discovered, she said, and so the audit was quickly started.

The program, supported by federal funds, provides fuel bills income from Oct. 1, 1976 to 1977. The cut-off file applications for the grants was Sept. 23, and that was an extension from an earlier announced August 1st cut-off.

In all Illinois received some $13.6 million from the federal government to fund the program. When all of the checks are mailed Illinois will be one of the states with the highest number of recipients. The state will have also spent the entire federal grant.

No administrative services money for the program was provided by the federal government, Marsh said. We had to even bring in 50 volunteers to help with administration.

In all, some 220,000 request forms were received. The individual who applied for the help had to go to their local community action or community-based organizations for a grant.

The forms were then forwarded to Springfield when the information was processed and placed on computers for the payout system was started.

The money that the grant will be used for concerns heating fuel, the grant is to help offset the fuel bill.

How did a person qualify for a grant under the income poverty guidelines?

An individual with an income of $3,713 or less would qualify; a family of two with an income of $4,913 would qualify. For a family of four the income cut-off is $6,143, and for six it is $8,713. For each additional family member about $1,200 is added to the base income for the individual.

State road deaths rise during year

New statistics by the Illinois State Police spotlight disobedience to traffic laws and show that in 1977, 2,110 persons were killed on Illinois roads due to the traffic accidents, an increase of 37 over 1976.

Rural accidents took the lives of 1,200 persons in 1977, a decrease of 24. District Eleven, which covers a nine-county area, had 140 rural fatalities in 1977, a decrease of 19 under 1976. Trooper James G. Gallo of Maryville comments, "Popular computer talk all traffic laws could have prevented most of these fatal accidents.

"When stopping a traffic violation, police officers very often hear the ability excuse. 'The other driver was also violating the law.' If this is your attitude when driving, you may very well become another statistic in 1978."

"Help the Illinois State Police keep you alive. 'Obey all traffic laws.'"

MANTLE OF SNOW TODAY in the downtown Granite City area. About an inch of snow had fallen at the time this picture was taken this morning, and the sign shows the temperature was 16 degrees. A passerby had no trouble negotiating the white-covered sidewalk, but the snow was a factor in several auto crashes in the Quad-Cities.

Overpass talks near successful conclusion

Negotiations between Granite City, five railroads and the Illinois Commerce Commission on funding for construction of a 19th Street traffic overpass between the downtown area and West Granite City are nearing completion.

A final settlement Tuesday afternoon was delayed only by indications from the railroads that they may contribute more than the required minimum.

Granite City engineer Monroe Brewer said there was a cordial meeting between city representatives and the railroads before the ICC in Springfield Tuesday afternoon.

The railroads, he said, had wrapped it up, accepting the minimum amount from the railroads, but they gave us a glimmer of hope they may contribute more. So we set another meeting for March 16 before the ICC to wrap it up.

"We hope to meet with the railroads involved before then," Brewer said.

Present testimony before the ICC Tuesday was the city's presentation of information on how much the railroads can gain by contributing to the overpass.

It costs the railroads $90,000 a year to maintain the 19th Street crossing and to keep the watch tower employees. That is money they can pocket almost immediately and each year forever," Brewer said.

He said there also would be savings on liability for accidents between trains and vehicles and the railroads would save money by not having to slow down and observe extra caution when going across 19th Street, if the overpass was constructed.

Brewer said some railroads have a moral obligation to consider helping the city fund the overpass, since the city supported the railroads' attempts to replace the overpass at the Nolinbridge Avenue and 20th Street crossings with automatic signals, with the understanding the city would be given "future considerations" by the railroads.

The city has committed $30,000 in motor fuel taxes to improving the pavement of these crossings, which he said will represent a saving to the railroads.

He noted that the 19th Street crossing is used by the Norfolk & Western, Illinois Central Gulf, Conrail, Terminal Railroad Association and Illinois Terminal Railroad.

American Steel Foundries also has a spur, but is not under ICC regulation and cannot be ordered to contribute for the overpass.

"We do not plan to ask American Steel for a contribution, but we will need some rights-of-way from them, so we are hoping for their cooperation in return for the benefits the railroads will bring them," Brewer said.

Scott solidifies role as 'people's lawyer'

Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott this week described 1977 as the "most successful year ever in the history of the Illinois attorney general's office." He made the comment in reviewing a year-end report of activities of the office.

A string of major legal victories scored by Scott's office in 1977 included: victory over the City of Milwaukee regarding pollution of Lake Michigan; two suits over the steel industry; Steel, one involving a low-priced purchase of submerged lake land, and the other concluding water pollution of the lake by United States Steel.

A successful settlement of a $29 million tax collection suit against the Penn Central Railroad formalizing Scott's philosophy that the Illinois attorney general has the power to act for the people as well as all state agencies.

Scott observed that his staff in 1977 continued to maintain a "switching" first detected by Scott, and an Illinois Supreme Court victory formalizing Scott's philosophy that the Illinois attorney general has the power to act for the people as well as all state agencies.

Scott observed that his staff in 1977 continued to maintain a success rate of "better than 90 percent" in concluded litigation, and continued to receive a high return of about $12 to $15 million in Revenue Fund for each dollar the office costs taxpayers.

In addition, Scott noted that the office has launched a number of legal actions aimed at controlling the dumping of toxic wastes at radioactive wastes in Illinois.

These relate to radioactive storage sites at Sheffield and Morris and a hazardous-waste storage site at Wilsonville.

Scott described this storage problem as "one of the top problems" he expects to deal with in the year ahead.

He noted that similar tough litigation resolved in victories in 1977 had taken several years of effort.

Scott said he is pleased to note that in day-to-day work in protecting consumers, in protecting the environment, and in such basic areas as collecting taxes from tax-dodging state officials, he has maintained the same degree of effort and success as was shown in the "headline cases."

A summary of key legal actions in 1977 follows:

Jan. 13: Two antitrust suits involve 10 Illinois and Wisconsin firms and $2,460,000 in contracts. Five downstate counties' roadwork was involved.

Jan. 14: Scott issued an order releasing $16 million involving collection of the Illinois sales tax on motor fuels.

Jan. 24: Sted United Airlines for $4.5 million in unclaimed customer refunds and other unclaimed funds held more than seven years.

Feb. 15: Won settlement on an anti-trust case against Crystal Lake real estate brokers, establishing that commission rates are negotiable with the seller.

Feb. 16: Antitrust suit against Bloomington home builder and land developer.

Feb. 21: Won injunction against transport company victimizing Mexican-Americans moving personal goods to Illinois.

March 18: Won the final round in Illinois Supreme Court in a 14-year-old antitrust case, preventing United States Steel from taking 194.6 acres of Lake Michigan submerged land for $100 an acre.

March 19: Filed against General Motors on engine substitutions.

March 18: Scott wins $1,280,000 for state in cigarette tax case.

May 25: Scott enters into a case involving storage of hazardous materials on the side of Wiltonville residents and the public of Illinois, in effort to close site, to six-year lawsuit to return $234,000 to customers from the Midwest Stock Exchange Special Trust Fund to cover losses from a failed Securities Emporium.

July 2: Scott wins final round in battle to stop Milwaukee from polluting Lake Michigan.

Aug. 9: Recovered $425,000 in stolen motor fuel tax funds from B. J.'s Truck Stop.

Aug. 10: Successfully concluded a series of lawsuits to stop United States Steel from polluting Lake Michigan, completing actions against all polluters in the lake's steel complex.

Aug. 17: Obtained final settlement of a lawsuit against a Chicago travel agency, ending discrimination against handicapped persons by such travel agency.

September: Scott leads attorneys general from eight Great Lakes states to obtain more diversion of lake water for public cities and villages.

Sept. 19: Scott's actions against radioactive-waste storage sites at Sheffield and Morris in Illinois. Vows to stop Illinois from being the nation's "hazardous-waste dumping ground."

Oct. 12: Scott established an Illinois Supreme Court ruling that the attorney general has the power to represent the people in the state in legal actions, as well as other state actions. The ruling formalizes Scott's activist philosophy in office, and assures that future attorneys general will have the authority to speak on behalf of the citizens of Illinois.

November: Antitrust case against nine real estate developers and home-builders in Bloomington.

Nov. 22: Antitrust suit filed against a highway construction firm, alleging bid-rigging on a $1,500,000 contract in Greene County.

Dec. 19: Scott leads 43 other state attorneys general in a successful conclusion to consumer fraud suit against General Motors.

Dec. 20: Scott obtains settlement of $20 million in taxes owed Illinois by the Penn Central Railroad.

Dec. 20: Scott sues 13 paper manufacturers for alleged price-fixing activities relating to $2 million in State of Illinois purchases.

Jan. 13: Scott launches crusade on welfare fraud by suing a currency exchange and bank for cashing $396,500 in forged checks.

Charged in armed robbery

Leonard D. Riley, 17, of 2040 Washington Ave., was charged with armed robbery in an informational document from the Madison County state's attorney issued Tuesday.

Riley, a citizen, was using a butcher knife and robbing an attendant at the Clark service station, Nameoki Road and Washington Avenue, about 1:30 Sunday night.

The attendant, Randy Biggs, who was wearing heavy gloves, grabbed the knife blade and punched the robber, knocking him back, he told police.

The other citizen, Eddie Biggs, another attendant, and a customer subdued the robber and recovered the money, police were told.

Riley was being held for police, who arrived when he was related. His bond has been set at $20,000 and he was taken to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

Pigs are the noisiest animal hospital patients

By GORDON BILLINGSLEY

CHAMPAIGN — Elephants and leopards have been known to drop by. But cattle with kidney stones or pregnant goats are more common.

Because it's among the best equipped animal hospitals in the world, the University of Illinois' new Large Animal Clinic gets its share of out-of-the-ordinary patients, among them a circus elephant that stepped on a nail and a rare snow leopard from Chicago, in need of a radical neckectomy.

Patients one day recently included a horse with a hernia, a cow whose stomach literally turned upside down, a steer with kidney stones, a (formerly) pregnant goat and a male hog with a rather lackluster family life.

Surgeons, operating on the horse and cattle back on their feet. Actually, the cattle never really left their feet — not even during the operation, and the horse "slept" through his ordeal — when he awoke it was in a padded room.

The goat — a beauty as a research animal — was given a makeshift home for her unexpected babies by the clinic's animal staffers.

"That was a mistake," a clinic worker admitted. "We didn't know she was about to have babies when we bought her."

The boar got a veterinarian's version of sex counseling — some well placed prods with an electrical probe as they searched for the source of his sexual activities.

The animals that come to the clinic react in different ways to the masked men and women who insist on poking, rubbing and sometimes cutting them.

The cattle are models of equanimity. They take their medicine literally, standing up for most operations, and never drop a moo. When taken off feed before an operation, they chew their cud. When forced to stand, some leap after being hoisted by ropes; they quietly endure.

Horses, however, are nervous, fragile creatures. Most of the equipment for tender handling is intended for them, and they enjoy such comforts as operating tables that lower them to the floor, and padded recovery rooms, the floors of which dolly out on little tracks from the operating table, and then roll with the horse to the padded room.

Goats are considered clever. One old ram, who has been to the clinic several times, has learned to remove the muzzles that are supposed to prevent his eating before an operation.

"He's also starting to learn the layout," a student said. "He's getting used to the place, and I think out of his mind, and he'll start to do some of the hallway thinking, 'man, it's nice to be out of there.' But the farther he gets the more he recognizes that he doesn't like where he's going. We can have a heck of time getting him back to the operating room sometimes."

As for pigs they are the noisy ones. Incessant squealing, whether in pain or not, is their trademark. Hogs, along with horses, are often completely anesthetized for operations.

Preparing the animals for operations is about the same, regardless of breed. The spot for the incision is shaved, then it's cleaned in medicated solution, doused liberally with alcohol, wiped and draped with sterile cloths.

Those who perform the operations are draped in sterile gowns, masked and gloved (including a special hood for long-haired, bearded persons) and scrubbed head to toe. If you want to watch, you'll get the same treatment in the operating room sometimes.

Illinois ERA Caravan here Tuesday

In the mid 1800's women began to press for the right to vote in this country and feminist leaders, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Lucy Stone, Susan B.

Anthony and others began to travel from community to community across the states. The group traveled by train and carriage, stopping along the way to gather national support for the women's suffrage amendment.

Today the issue is the Equal Rights Amendment and many women, like their foremothers, have begun to travel from community to community to activate the majority supporters of the 27th amendment.

On Tuesday, Jan. 17, at 7:30 p.m., at the Tri-City Area YMCA, ERA speakers will accompany a film entitled "How We Got the Vote." The program, which centers on women's historic struggle for suffrage, is open to the public.

Liz Neely, the Southern Illinois ERA Caravan coordinator, explained the ERA Caravan is a field organizing tool that was successfully used in the 1976 Indiana ratification effort.

She added, "Hopes are high for ratification in Illinois before the March 1979 deadline. After all, we believe it's only right that women should be included in the U.S. Constitution."

For more information concerning the program, those interested may call Metro-East NOW at 931-5400.

Missionary at Gospel Mission

The Rev. Gordon C. Timyan, a missionary from the Ivory Coast of Africa, will speak at 7 p.m. Sunday at the Gospel Mission, 2001 St. Louis.

The public is invited to attend the service and hear the Rev. Timyan, who was a regular speaker at the Gospel Mission before accepting missionary assignment a year ago. Currently on furlough from Africa, the missionary will be accompanied to the Granite City church by Dr. George A. Rutherford of Elgin, pastor of the Edgerton Bible Church.

The Rev. Timyan and his wife, Janis, are assigned to the Institut Biblique at Yamoussoukro on the Ivory Coast of West Africa.

The work is accomplished through the Christian and Missionary Alliance of New York.

The Timyans are the parents of a daughter, Lois, and a son, John. The latter is attending school at the Ivory Coast Academy at Bouake in West Africa.

Mrs. Gussie Munsterman of Granite City has returned to her home after attending funeral services for her brother, William H. Mitchell, 96, of Streater.

He died Jan. 2 in a nursing home in Streater and the services were conducted at a Streater funeral home at 2 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 7. Mr. Mitchell was a retired farmer.

Other relatives attending the services were from St. Louis, Michigan, Texas, Minnesota, Arizona and Hawaii.

Extend enrollment at BAC - Madison

Crashes during today's snowfall

Illinois Highway 111 at Pontoon Road was described as treacherous this morning by a police spokesman. Two snow related accidents occurred there.

A woman driving a southbound auto on 111 lost control of it at 8:42 a.m. and her auto hit other vehicles.

She was taken to the St. Elizabeth Hospital emergency room, and the extent of her injuries is being determined.

Gale Johnson, 40, South Roxana, had been heading south in a pickup truck on Highway 111. The truck had driven into a car, and the truck halted at the stoplight.

The latter truck was driven by Marty Brown, 25, Mexico, Mo. Johnson and Brown were outside of their vehicle, checking damage when the woman's car struck the Johnson truck, causing the Johnson truck to slide into the other southbound lane, striking the auto of Lloyd Berkley, 47, East Alton.

At 7:38 a.m. today at the same intersection a car driven by Sandra Ronning, 21, of 4137 Lake Drive, southbound on Highway 111 and attempting to make a right turn, went out of control and struck and knocked down a traffic signal.

The bids will be considered by two county committees at 3:30 p.m. Friday in the board room of the county courthouse at Edwardsville.

A lawsuit has been filed by Madison County Board Member Daniel Partney of City against 10 other county board members for approving an auto repair contract with Beckman.

It is impossible to determine at this time who submitted the lowest bids, since there were several high bids, and the sheriff's office will not release the names of the bidders.

A hearing on that suit is now set for Jan. 24.

There is expected to be opposition to the car purchases even with Beckman refraining from bidding, since specifications for one of the autos call for a luxury car for the sheriff.

Dalton also plans to oppose

Also expected to come "under fire" is the purchase of 20 riot shotguns for the sheriff's department. Bids from two firearm dealers were opened yesterday, as were bids for a high-speed electronic backbone, for the printing of tax bills, and for other purchases.

Elizabeth I was crowned Queen of England on Jan. 13, 1559.

Going to Jr. Miss competition

A week full of competition, practice sessions, new friends, participation and fun awaits Pamela Jean Tester, Granite City's first Junior Miss. She will be spending next week, Jan. 15-21, in Philadelphia, competing with 19 other young women for the title of Illinois Junior Miss for 1978.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joel W. Tester, she was selected on the basis of her poise and appearance, youth fitness, overall academic achievement, and creative and performing arts.

She was chosen by the Granite City Junior Miss Committee in November. During the state competition, she will perform a gymnastic-jazz routine. She is a student of Marge Salem.

A senior at North High School, she has been a member of the National Honor Society, Silver Spirit Pep Club, Papermen Players, Science Club, Modern Music Masters and the school band.

She has been a variety cheerleader for four years and is listed in "Who's Who" American High School Students. She has also received several presidential physical fitness awards and was a member of the Blue Angel soccer team.

A member of the 1977 North homecoming court, she was first runner-up in the Miss Madison County Fair contests in both 1976 and 1977. She was selected as an at-large

EXTRA WORK THIS MORNING. Mike Macek, burglar alarm coordinator for the City of Madison, like the rest of Quad-Citians, found an extra task this morning, cleaning windshields and windows due to the snowfall. Macek is shown cleaning the burglar alarm department car at 7:30 a.m. today at the municipal parking lot next to the Madison police station on Third Street.

In Memoriam 33

A Tribute to the Memory of
Our Dear Wife and Mother
BEULAH K. BEEDLE
entered into rest
December 12, 1977

Dear Lord—
Oh Lord, watch over these dear friends.

Help them to carry on—
Give them strength and courage
Now that their loved one's gone
Now— but not forever

Let them all live in memory
Far beyond the Blue Horizon Where she's gone to prepare the way.

And as they place her earthly body in the ground—
Very gently neat the sod—
Let them know with blessed assurance.

That her soul is with you, dear
God.

In Loving Memory of DANIEL M. PONDER, Sr. who passed away
January 15, 1977

As a perfume doth remain
In the place where it hath lain,
So the thought of you,
remaining.

Deeply folded in my brain,
Will not leave me:
all things leave me:

You remain:
Other thoughts may come and go.

Other moments I may know
That shall wait me, in their time.

As a breath blown to and fro,
fragrant memories:

Come and go.

Only thoughts of you remain
In my heart where they have lain.

Perfumed thoughts of you,
remaining.

A bit sweetness, in my brain.

Others leave me:

You remain:

Exploratory oil drilling at continental shelves is urged

(American Association for the Advancement of Science) President Carter's national energy plan predicts that the U.S. can raise its production of petroleum by one million barrels a day by the year 1985. Some industry representatives disagree, however, about where and even whether this oil exists.

Philip H. Abelson, editor of Science, the journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, says that some oil geologists and exploration managers are optimistic about our untrapped reserves. Others cite the poor results of drilling in the contiguous 48 states in the last five years.

Abelson himself calls the national energy plan's prospects "optimistic."

With present leasing policies and federal regulations hampering exploration on the outer continental shelves along the East and West coasts of the U.S., says Abelson, the "lower 48" and Alaska must bear the burden of meeting Pres. Carter's goal of 11 million barrels per day by 1985.

This means that new sources will have to be found to produce more than 11 million barrels per day, but Abelson points out that for the past four years, discoveries averaged only 1.2 million barrels a year, and little of that was from new fields.

However, 40,000 new holes are being drilled each year in what Abelson calls "unpromising territory."

Without exploratory drilling in the frontier regions, including Alaska and the outer continental shelf, there is little hope of making reasonable estimates of how much oil the nation has on reserve, according to the Science editor.

"We will have no basis for an estimate of oil potential until we have drilled," Abelson concludes.

"Among these large fields, 76 were found before 1955. Only eight large fields came into production in the years 1956 to 1975, and they yielded only 3.9 percent of the total oil."

To illustrate the need for the discovery of new oil fields, Abelson notes that the great East Texas field discovered in 1930 still ranks high with respect to reserves and production, but only 20 percent of its original reserves remain.

"By far the best prospects for major discoveries are in the frontier regions," says Abelson. "For example, one field at Prudhoe Bay, Alaska, contains nearly as much oil as the 30,000 oil fields that existed in the contiguous 48 states in 1976."

However, 40,000 new holes are being drilled each year in what Abelson calls "unpromising territory."

Without exploratory drilling in the frontier regions, including Alaska and the outer continental shelf, there is little hope of making reasonable estimates of how much oil the nation has on reserve, according to the Science editor.

"We will have no basis for an estimate of oil potential until we have drilled," Abelson concludes.

Mt. Fuji, Prison Game, Abide with Me on TV 9

Three diverse and compelling stories will be featured in January as KETC-TV, Channel 9, presents The Ascent of Mt. Fuji, The Prison Game and Abide With Me.

The Ascent of Mt. Fuji, a three-part television theater production, will be shown Tuesday, Jan. 10, is a contemporary Soviet drama by playwrights Chingiz Aitmatov and Joseph Campion. Avery Schreiber, Andrea Marcovici and Jeanette Nolan star in this controversial play about dissent and human rights.

The second drama focuses on a group of boyhood friends who fought together on the Russian front during World War II. Years later, the old comrades gather for a picnic reunion on a hill in southern Russia nicknamed Mt. Fuji, after the sacred mountain of truth in Japan.

One member, however, is absent: Sabur, a poet, was imprisoned and subsisted during the war. The reunion becomes a psychological detective mystery as the men relive Sabur's tragedy and examine their responsibility for it. Michaela Strong, Stefan Gierach, Diane Shultz and Joanne Linville also star.

A television game show is the absurd setting for The Prison Game, written by the award-winning playwright and novelist Steven Yankowitz for the Visions drama series.

Airing at 9 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 14, it focuses on a day in which panelists try to guess which of the three women contestants has murdered her husband. The drama shifts between the game show mode, trials and black-and-white flashbacks which present the evidence about the contestants' married lives.

Jessica Walter, Edith Diaz and Cara Williams are featured in the game show, while Chu Chu Malave, David Haywood and Ryan Macdonald as the victims and Peter Bonzer, Severn Darden and Neva Patterson as the panelists.

The third drama focuses on an old dogwalker and a young girl hired as her housekeeper is the basis for Abide With Me, a Great Performances presentation airing at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 14.

Based on a 19th-century British author's diary, "A Child in the Forest," the drama is set in 1928 and filmed in the original Gloucestershire setting.

Julian Mitchell's dramatization also features Zena Walker, Phyllida Law, John Nettleton, Geoffrey Bent, Denis Carey and Denise Hopkins.

Plan 2nd inspection of home for retarded

Governor James R. Thompson, the top state official, visited and inspect Beverly Farm, a privately funded and operated home for the mentally retarded, located in Gentry.

The governor, asked State Mental Health Director Robert A. DeVito, Public Health Director Paul O. Petersen and State Fire Marshal Jack Carter to inspect the home before the end of the year.

Thompson asked for the three officials to submit a written report to him following their visit, listing ways "to keep Beverly Farm open and in compliance with state and department regulations."

The governor visited the home Dec. 30 to personally inspect allegations that the home was not meeting state standards in certain areas.

"The Farm, which has applied for a license to serve mentally retarded, presents a complex set of problems which need immediate attention," Thompson said in letters to the three officials.

"The Farm's administration and the parents of the children and adult residents feel they are providing quality care in a family-like setting."

Driver service facilities outside of Cook County follow a regular Tuesday through Saturday operating schedule.

Dunlap, Holiday Shores dams are being inspected

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is continuing its inspection of Illinois dams under the nationwide inspection dam program.

Of the 15 Illinois dams initially inventoried by the Corps, 15 selected by the Illinois Water Resources Division in coordination with the Corps' Chicago District. Engineers are beginning the first inspection.

All 15 are classified in the high-hazard-potential category because of their location upstream of populated areas which would be seriously affected in the event of a failure.

Included are state, city and privately owned dams in 13 Illinois counties.

First to be inspected was the privately-owned Dunlap Lake Dam near Edwardsville in Madison County.

Preliminary on-site inspection of that 30-foot-high dam with a water storage area of 1,170 acre feet was made by a joint Corps-state team last month. The Corps hopes to complete the inspection of 10 of the 15 dams in a 30-day period ending Jan. 15.

Members of the team, from the Corps' Chicago District and two from the Illinois State Water Resources Division, include a hydraulics engineer, a geologist, and construction and civil engineers.

The team will review available engineering data on the design, construction and operation of each dam, check the dam and its control works, and look for any evidence of leakage, including seepage.

The national dam inspection program will be used to inspect, at federal cost, those non-federal dams whose failure would cause substantial loss of life and property damage.

The owner of a dam is legally responsible for the potential hazards created by the structure. The state has the basic responsibility to protect the life and property of its citizens. The federal program for the inspection of dams does not change those basic responsibilities.

The federal government is involved in the inspection of non-federal dams because:

1. Fund and administer the inspection of the 1,000 dams.

2. Update the 1975 national inventory of dams.

3. Assist states in the development and improvement of state dam safety programs.

4. Implement application of an effective dam safety program.

5. Assist in implementing the federally-financed dam inspection, including participation in state personnel training, and performing actual dam inspections where criteria are met.

Assuring that they will use available means to take remedial actions when unsafe dams are found.

More available for this inspection year for the inspection program totals $10,000,000.

Federal dams are excluded from the national inspection program because that the federal agencies responsible for those dams monitor and inspect them.

The federal government does not assume any responsibility for the safety of non-federal dams. It inspects.

Items checked during inspection of a dam include:

(1) Review of available engineering data on the design, construction and operation of the dam.

(2) Detailed visual inspection of the dam and control works, including electrical and mechanical equipment, the reservoir area, and the downstream area.

(3) Any evidence of leakage, erosion, seepage, undue settlement, cracking or improper functioning of drains and relief wells.

(4) Adequacy and quality of operation and maintenance procedures.

(5) Adequacy of spillway to discharge safely inflows without overtopping or endangering the safety of the dam.

of dams in the early 1970s it identified about 40,000 dams with a height of at least 25 feet and a capacity of at least 50 acre-feet.

An acre-foot of water is the volume of water covering an acre to a depth of one foot.

Of these, about 9,000 were located upstream of populated areas which would be endangered if the dams failed.

The program will last about four years and will have an estimated cost of about $70,000,000.

Some of the dams will be inspected by Corps personnel.

Contracts also will be let to qualified engineering firms. States will be reimbursed for inspections performed by their personnel. The final inspection report will be reviewed by the Corps' district engineer and sent to the governor.

The Corps of Engineers during the next four years will:

1. Fund and administer the inspection of the 1,000 dams.

2. Update the 1975 national inventory of dams.

3. Assist states in the development and improvement of state dam safety programs.

4. Implement application of an effective dam safety program.

Higher '77 Illinois crop yield in wheat, oats, rye and barley

Winter wheat production in Illinois in 1977 totaled 88 million bushels, down five percent from last year, according to the Illinois Cooperative Crop Reporting Service.

A total of 1,670,000 acres was planted for the 1977 crop, 12 percent less than for 1976.

The acreage harvested for grain, at 1,590,000 acres, was down 14 percent from a year ago.

The year's yield averaged 43 bushels per acre, compared with 39.0 bushels for both 1975 and 1976.

The Illinois 1977 winter wheat crop had to be one of the coldest winters in recent years. However, snow cover in many areas helped protect the crop from the severe conditions.

After the rains and warm temperatures in March and April provided for a favorable growing season.

The crop matured in good shape and harvested generally ahead of 1976 and was virtually complete by mid-July, the ICCRS said.

Oats production for 1977 was 20.7 million bushels, down seven percent from the 22.4 million bushels in 1976.

Acreage planted for grain was 390,000 acres and acreage harvested for grain was 340,000 acres in 1977.

The 1977 yield averaged 61 bushels per acre, an increase of two bushels over 1976.

Oats seedings progressed at a near normal pace and the crop was generally in good condition throughout the growing season. Harvest was completed by the end of July.

Production for the 1977 rye crop was 330,000 bushels, up five percent.

A total of 65,000 acres was planted, unchanged from a year ago.

The estimated 15,000 acres harvested for grain in 1977 equalled the harvested acreage in 1976.

The increase in production resulted from an increase in yield from 21 bushels per acre in 1976 to 24 bushels in 1977.

The rye crop emerged through the winter in mostly good condition. Spring and early row spacings because of crowding between planter trips across the field.

Average width of soybean rows in Illinois increased for the first time since 1973 — to 32.7 inches from 32.5 in 1976.

Williams remained the leading variety in 1977, accounting for 26.9 percent of the state soybean acreage. Wayne remained second in 1977 with 14.4 percent of the total.

Amsoy soybeans, including Amsoy 71, were planted on 12.9 percent of the Illinois acreage last year.

Officer reports and communications were read and accepted by the group.

The selection committee was formed with Madames Bernadette Cooley, Harriet Horn, Henry George, and Fred Werner appointed to serve.

Mrs. Jan Kohl recommended an extension of the Christmas recess to the third Thursday in January.

The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer led by Mrs. Alfred Pape, and the next meeting was set for Jan. 19 with Mrs. C. L. Louis as hostess at the First United Presbyterian Church.

Others attending were Madames T. C. Aufderheide, Mrs. Bernadette Cooley, Mrs. Bootiger, W. G. Cooley, Marvin Eddington, Keith Edwards, Fred Haug, Ray Horn, Walter Johnson, C. I. Lewis, Bonard Maples, Louis Meek, and E. F. Reiske.

Mrs. Edith Young entertains club

The We Five Club held their monthly meeting in the home of Mrs. Edith Young, 2307 Kirkpatrick Homes, last week.

Mrs. Young served a luncheon followed by an afternoon card game. Prizes were presented to each one present including Madames Avis Moore, Della Hagen, Emma Gobble and Caroline Lux.

Mrs. Lux will host the Feb. 3 meeting in her home, 2209 Kirkpatrick Homes.

Mrs. Leggett presents topic

"God's Reign in Human Authority" was the subject of a program discussed by Mrs. Lynda Leggett at a meeting of the Christian Women's Fellowship of Central Christian Church.

Mrs. Dorothea Rivenburgh, president, opened the meeting by leading the group in recitation of the CWF prayer.

Reports were given by Mrs. Mary Lee Lurton, Mrs. Luann Durbin, Mrs. Leggett, Mrs. Edna Edwards, and Mrs. Margaret Rutter.

The current service project, is in progress now until June 1, is the use of blessing boxes which each person is to place their reason for using the box and coins inside the container which will be opened at the June meeting.

Another program is the traveling blanket box to be passed to each of the women organizations.

Mrs. Rivenburgh reminded members to make an effort to visit shut-ins and hospital patients.

Reading chairman Mrs. Velma Grun, displayed several books for the members to read with the year.

Nancy Stephen, one of the youth members in the church, will attend the International Affairs Seminar at the United Nations in March, it was noted.

During the meeting, Mrs. Blanche Lane was named chairman of the nominating committee. She will be assisted by Mrs. Len Seitzer and Mrs. Diane L. Lyle.

FIRST FACTORY. Henry Ford's first factory is one of more than 100 old buildings at Greenfield Village, a unique outdoor museum that captures the flavor of America's past.

'Village' stops time to show nation's progress

By JACK
BIESTERFIELD

DEARBORN, Mich. — A lot can happen in three centuries. But visitors to the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village in Dearborn, Mich., can see it all in a day or two.

The historical complex, founded by Henry Ford in 1929, traces American life through the development of the country's arts, skills and technology. It is one of the nation's most complete collections of Americana.

There are actually two attractions side by side. The main building shows milestones in the history of American decorative and mechanical art. The village is a reconstruction of more than 100 historical buildings moved there from various parts of the U.S. and England.

For instance, along the village's main street is a quintessential shop from the late 18th century. Above the storefront are the words "Wright Bicycle Shop." Inside, among the handlebars and bicycle tires, are wooden ribs for an airplane wing, other aircraft craft parts.

The original Wright Brothers shop from Ohio where they constructed the first practical airplane.

Another attraction is a two-story wooden building brought from Menlo Park, N.J. It was here that Thomas Edison's incandescent light bulb first lit the darkness.

A third attraction is a two-story wooden building brought from Menlo Park, N.J. It was here that Thomas Edison's incandescent light bulb first lit the darkness.

For an admirer of the great men of history, there's a bust of Abraham Lincoln. The bust is his actual auto mobile, as well as his first factory and his birthplace, are on display.

Many homes from the past are scattered in the village including the house where Noah Webster compiled his dictionary.

Horse-drawn carriages take visitors for rides around the village. There's also a covered bridge and through the streets of yesteryear.

The facade of the Henry Ford Museum is built as replicas of Independence Hall, Congress Hall and City Hall of Philadelphia. The collections cover 14 acres under roof.

First displays seen by visitors are the decorative arts displays. In these galleries are outstanding examples of early American, as well as European, furniture, ceramics, glass, clocks, tools and paintings.

Beyond the galleries is the large mechanical arts hall, which traces man's technological progress. A collection of early automobiles includes everything from an early Model A to limousines used by presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy.

Antique fire engines and trucks are shown, too, as well as early airplanes and locomotives.

The most impressive displays in the museum are for the most part built of the hall and are worth looking for. Here can be found the huge machines and engines that led this country to technological dominance of the world.

There's giant machines tower several stories above the museum floor. Some have massive wheels 24 feet in diameter, and their parts extend down into the earth. Huge brick or stone towers hold the wheels, arms and pistons of these behemoths, some of which once pumped water from mines deep underground and powered early factories.

Beside the decorative arts and mechanical arts halls is the Street of Early American Shops. These 16 business establishments, with their shingled roofs, laticed windows and quaint shop signs, resemble a street of a century ago. Some of these are the leather shop, toy shop, milliner's shop, boot shop and gun shop.

In one of the shops craftsmen ply their trades. A broom maker twists husks into useful household tools, which are sold in the museum's gift shop. A candle maker makes visitors how early housewives had dipped candles for the family's use.

Although it is possible to see the exhibits in one day, it is much better to allot one day to each. They are both open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission to each attraction is $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for children.

To find the museum, take Interstate 94 to Dearborn, then exit northbound on Southfield Avenue (Michigan 39) to go three miles north to the museum and village.

Ambulance solution imperative in non-Granite City areas

The ambulance problem brought out in a discussion among Quad-City area public officials Monday afternoon is a severe one.

As has been previously noted, collection problems that formerly plagued private ambulance firms have also affected the Granite City municipal ambulance service, causing costs to exceed income.

It is legal for the city to pick up part of the cost for ambulance calls within its municipal boundaries, but some form of guarantee will be needed in the territory in other municipalities and in other townships' unincorporated areas.

Non-city residents may want to consider joining the city to assure their continued eligibility for ambulance service.

In instances where they are not contiguous and cannot directly solve their problem, families need and deserve some action soon on the part of their governmental leaders.

Through illness or accidents, any person can find himself or herself unexpectedly in need of emergency aid and transportation. A solution is imperative.

Failure to act responsibly by Democratic Party's board

The executive board of the Madison County Democratic Central Committee came close to acting responsibly Monday night, but close wasn't good enough. As a result, one of the liveliest primary campaigns in many years seems assured for the period leading up to the March 21 balloting.

By the narrowest of margins, 15 votes out of the 29 board members present, the Democratic leaders decided to adhere to the recommendation of their screening unit, endorsed James E. Toffant. Another candidate for the nomination is Emil Toffant, whose much more extensive law enforcement experience is expected to attract considerable public support.

In the 15-13 vote, with Edward Voumard abstaining, no other sheriff hopefuls were mentioned; the sole sheriff endorsement issue was whether to ratify what the 15-member screening panel had recommended.

Voumard had received some backing in the screening deliberations and is also thought to have had considerable support among those present Monday. Five of the 34 executive board members were absent.

There is speculation that a three-way race may develop, with fourth and fifth primary candidates also attracting some votes.

In any case, the party's governing board has acted, but not in a way that reflects majority agreement over what direction Madison County's County Board should take during 1978. Exactly how wide the party split will become remains to be seen.

What was decided this week appears to have inspired little confidence among the electorate, which is left with highly-important "homework" for the next nine weeks — studying all the candidates and all that can be learned about their qualifications.

Hope for freedom still alive in many repressive countries

Press-Record Washington Bureau — President Carter's foreign tour has given him a chance to talk about human rights in parts of the world where it counts the most.

The Polish people could take heart at hearing the American President give his discreet support in Warsaw to their aspirations to be more independent of the Soviet Union. In India, Mr. Carter visited a country which only recently recovered political rights and freedoms which had been in eclipse.

Indeed, the restoration of civil liberties in India made 1977 a memorable year in the area of human rights.

Freedom House, the non-partisan organization which keeps track of the rise and fall of freedom around the world, has reported that more than one billion people in 1977 had more political and civil rights at the end of 1977 than they did at the beginning.

The Freedom House map looks brighter than at any time since January 1974," says the organization's annual report.

The lifting of bans on political activity and the press in India accounted for 622 million of those billion people gaining more freedom. Yet, 26 countries in all moved ahead on the Freedom House chart. Only nine countries slipped back.

The other side of the coin, of course, is that two-thirds of the world's population lives in countries still rated as "not free" or "partly free."

Oil paintings by 9 on exhibit

Nine students enrolled in the fall quarter at Granite City High School South have their work exhibit at the Madison County Fine Arts and Loan Association building, 3600 Naramoki Road.

The paintings were accomplished during the fall quarter under the instruction of Bob Mosk, an art teacher at Granite City High School North. Some 20 students are enrolled in the hobby area and the public is being invited to view the exhibit, which will continue through Jan. 23.

The artists are Nellie Dierker, Norma Talbert, Mary

Jo Akerman, Jeanette Pinkston, Ruth Buer, Randy Lee, Eva Meadows, Lucille Lattimore and Rea Stallings.

If a sufficient number of interested persons enroll during the winter quarter, a second class a week, a new class in oil painting is planned for the new semester, Mosk advised.

The office I am seeking is an excellent case in point. For example, in an editorial in October 1976, the Southern Illinoisan newspaper stated: "The job (in Illinois secretary of state) offers power, comfortable living, and provides an ideal platform to run for higher office, as well as an opportunity to be a substantial waste of public funds."

The incumbent secretary of state evidently agrees, for in June 1977 he was quoted in the Chicago Tribune as saying, "I'm not going to be a dummy to spend time with my family. I get to see my pals and buddies and go fishing and drink a little beer. I'm enjoying life. And I don't have to be in a big hurry (to run for higher office)."

Candidate promises 20% cost cut

To the Editor:

Candidates at all levels of government over the past few years have promised reduced spending once elected to the offices they sought.

The rhetoric of such promises is all too familiar to the voters. And the continuing increase in public spending is a profound statement to the seemingly uncontrollable frenzy of government that now appears bent on economically devouring the very people it is supposed to serve.

Notwithstanding the strong rhetoric and feeble effort of government officials, the facts are undeniable. Government spending continues to increase; taxes continue to go higher; and voters, everywhere, are frustrated and angry.

Politicians offer a myriad of excuses why they have failed to keep their campaign promises, including promises of reduced spending, but such excuses do nothing to save the pocketbooks of the office I am seeking is an excellent case in point. # 1980 may be year for tax relief

BY CARYL CARSTENS
SPRINGFIELD

Farmers may have to wait until 1980 for the tax relief promised by legislation passed during the 1978 session of the General Assembly.

The new law provides a formula for assessing farm land that includes the productivity of the property as well as its resale value, for determining its tax rate.

The tax bill paid by the property owner is based on assessed valuation.

Assessed valuations will not be figured under the new formula until 1979, but bills paid in 1979 would be based on the new valuations, under present requirements.

However, county officials responsible for assessing property are required to file notices in assessed formulas in their counties as a result of the new formula. They also are having difficulty in gearing up for the new system.

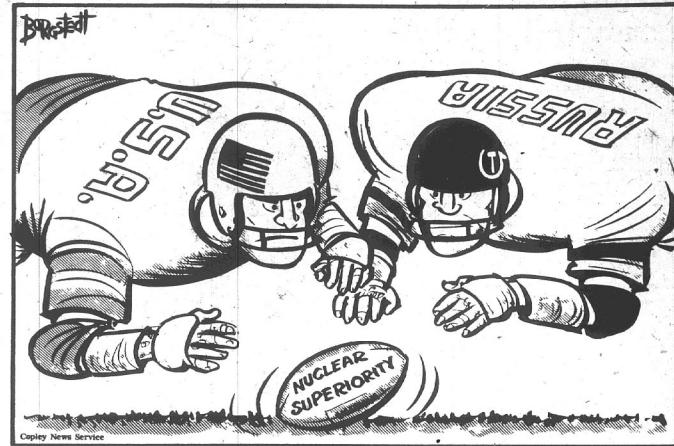

With the new Springfield County supervisor of assessments, and chairman of the legislative committee of the assessors' state organization, expects a move in the 1978 legislative session to push back the date the new system goes fully into effect from 1978 to 1979.

A one year delay would mean present assessed valuations of farm land would be used to figure 1978 and 1979 tax bills. The new formula would have its first impact on the 1980 tax bills.

In counties where the wealth is mainly agricultural, the new formula would not affect the current state school aid formula, Cardoni predicted.

Districts are to make up for losses in state aid if the new formula will go beyond the limits set by the school aid formula and will not receive matching state funds all of the local tax revenue, according to Cardoni.

There is no limit on what school districts may lose in state support as the result of

Super Bowl

School districts will be caught between the losses caused by the new farm land assessment formula and the restrictions of the current state school aid formula, Cardoni predicted.

Districts and other local governmental bodies may hope that valuation of farm land will increase in 1979, when assessments of farms must begin to use the new farm assessment formula.

The only alternative is to lobby for a year's delay in the effective date and hope the effect will be softened by 1980.

The state's school aid formula will also be little or no loss to local taxing districts.

Farm land, by custom, has been assessed at a lower rate than other kinds of property. However, in some counties, there has been an attempt to bring farm assessments up to the one-third of market value, the level required by state law. These will affect the properties that will lose under the new farm assessment formula.

McKain said he had found that in many rural counties, the new assessment formula will cause little change in the assessed valuation of farm land. That would mean there fluctuations in the local tax structure. But there is a strict limit on what they can gain in any year: 25 percent of their total grant in the previous year.

School districts and other local governmental bodies may hope that valuation of farm land will increase in 1979, when assessments of farms must begin to use the new farm assessment formula.

The only alternative is to lobby for a year's delay in the effective date and hope the effect will be softened by 1980.

The state's school aid formula, at least, are running for the Senate.

Five state representatives, at least, are running for the Senate. Harold Byers of Highland is challenging incumbent James Donnelly for the Democratic nomination for the Senate. Most of the county organizations have endorsed Donnelly.

James McLendon of Champaign has filed for Fred Smith's seat.

Two other representatives are candidates for Congress. John Porter of Evanston is

Non-law state rules affect public

By AL MANNING

SPRINGFIELD — Bruce Johnson, Springfield's new joint committee on Administrative Rules.

He has previously served as the assistant staff director of the House Democratic staff.

The committee will have the power to review rules which are proposed by various state agencies.

For one, is of the opinion those rules have a more direct bearing on the everyday lives of Illinois citizens than does the legislation approved by the legislature.

The rules are now becoming more of a focus of attention because of the publication of an Illinois Register, a publication similar to the Federal Register.

The committee will have advisory power only, no veto power. However, when the committee issues a statement of objection to a proposed rule, the agency must respond before the rule becomes effective.

Until now, each state agency has approved its own rules without any coordination by other agencies.

The new plan calls for a more systematic approach to the rules with legislative oversight.

Rep. Harry "Bus" Yourell, D-Oak Lawn, is chairman of the committee.

Johnson will be paid $28,000 annually in his new position.

Chicago will challenge Scott Hagedorn of Chicago in the 9th district.

As we have reported previously, women active in the party are irate at the State Central Committee for failing to slate a woman for state office, or for not paying more attention to their political demands.

The only woman on the Democratic committee, Anna West Scott of Champaign, is being challenged by John Baldini of Bloomington, chairman of the McLean County Democratic Central Committee.

At least two women have been nominated to the Illinois Senate.

James Donnelly for the Democratic nomination for the Senate. Most of the county organizations have endorsed Donnelly.

John Lauer of Broadwell is running for the seat being vacated by Harber Hall of Bloomington; Roger Keats of Waukegan is running for the seat being vacated by Andrew Glass of Northfield; and Lynn Martin of Rockford is running for the seat being vacated by Vivian Hickey of Rockford.

Others include Fred Schrader of Peoria, Bob Brinkmeier of Freeport, Louis Capuzi of Chicago, John Leon of Chicago and James H. Hickey of Chicago.

Former Sen. William Grindle of Herrin is also running for the House.
